IRISH TRICK

Katie was missing Pat, who was in the army, very much. She wrote him, telling of her loneliness, and ended with: "I'll have to spend up the garden, though." To which Pat replied: "Don't dig the garden, Katie. The girl. That's where me guns are hidden." The letter was duly censored, and in a short time a truckload of soldiers arrived at Pat's house and proceeded to dig the garden from one end to the other. Katie wrote Pat in desperation, asking him what to do now.

Pat's reply was short and to the point: "Plant the spuds."—Lake City Reporter.

ROCKFELLER HAND ME DOWN

In the early days of his phenomenal career, the late John D. Rockefeller was rather careless about his attire, and some times his friends tried to reason with him about it.

"Think of your father," one of them chided, "and what a neatly dressed man he always was."

Rockefeller smiled. "If that's your comparison, you can just forget about it," he said.

"Why?" asked the other.

"Because," replied Rockefeller, "this is a suit of my father's. I've got on now."—Collier County News.

WISE GUY, EH?

The Lord only knows how many stories there are concerning leather lunged drill sergeants and hapless recruits enmeshed in the intricacies of the order drill. One sergeant is reported to have roared at the ragged line before him:

"Don't you birds know how to line up? Every-day fall out and look at the terrible line you've made!"

Another one gave an order for the whole company to raise the right leg. One confused draftee raised his left leg in error. The sergeant looked down the line and saw the upraised left leg of one soldier right next to the upraised right leg of the recruit beside him.

"Who is that smart aleck in the middle of the line?" he bellowed, "who raised both legs?"—Winter Haven Herald.

THE HARD WAY

Mark Twain was once asked by a friend

if he remembered the first money he had ever earned.

"Yes," answered Mr. Clemens, puffing reflectively on his cigar, "I have a distinct recollection of it. I once attended a school where it was against the rules to mark the desks in any manner. The penalty being a fine of five dollars or public chastisement."

"Happening to violate the rule on one occasion, I was offered the alternative. I told my father, and he deemed it think it would be too bad for me to be publicly punished. He gave me the five dollars. At that period of my life five dollars seemed a large sum while shipping was of little consequence. And so," here Mr. Clemens reflectively knocked the ashes from his cigar—"well," he finally added, "that was how I earned my first five dollars."—Collier County News.

LABOR RACKETEERS AND LABOR

There's no question but what Florida's Attorney General Tom Watson has started something in his recent victory in the lower courts over racketeers of organized labor, for it is the racketeering labor leaders and not the rank and file of labor against whom his fight is directed.

It is conceded that the labor leaders will carry their fight to the U. S. Supreme Court, and that high tribunal has rendered some decisions under its present set-up that warrants belief that the decision of the lower courts in Florida may be reversed. But even if this happens and the work of the courageous Attorney General comes to naught, he will have accomplished something in having brought to the attention of the public some of the iniquitous practices of the racketeers of labor.

Nobody who is in favor of fairness and justice would want to return to the old system under which capital exploited labor for many years, and in some instances still does. The system which organized labor has opened for many years had its faults and many of them. However, the supremacy of labor has advanced to such an extent that it is plain to everybody that it is no better for the public to have ruthless labor leaders in charge than to have ruthless employers.

What we should hope for is that out of the welter of argument and strife we may eventually secure something that is fair and just to all parties concerned. Attorney General Watson's contentions have not been against the right of labor to act unilaterally in its dealings with employers, but against the right of racketeering leaders to compel labor to follow their dictates and to swing the power of government behind a system that instead of freeing labor tends to enslave it.

This is a big field and one worthy of the most careful consideration of the people, if the best interest of all are to be served.—Arcadia Arcadian.

Morning Worship 11 o'clock.

Epworth League 7:15, Melba Johnson, President.

Evening service 8 o'clock.

Prayer meeting, 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday. Choir practice at 8:30.

The meetings for prayer and edification which were held in each section of the parish have been well attended and a very gracious spirit of fervent consideration permeated all services.

The week of dedication will be concluded next Sunday with the sacrament of the Lord's Supper which will be administered at the evening service.

We urge all our members and adherents to be present on this day of dedication so that we may rededicate ourselves to God and pray for a just and lasting peace.

Long Distance Lines Are Production Lines, Too

Don't Crowd them with Unnecessary Calls

Back before Hitler and Tojo set the world aflame, it was convenient and practical to transact business—deliver messages—great relatives and friends by long distance telephone.

But now these same long distance telephone lines are needed more and more to help produce the implements of war and move them to the fighting fronts. New lines cannot be built to fully meet the increasing volume of calls because the raw materials needed are being made into weapons of war.

Unnecessary long distance calls may slow up vital war calls. That's especially true of "long haul" calls, for the greater the distance you talk, the greater the threat to war service. You can do much to help speed victory by making only necessary long distance calls and by being brief in all telephone conversations.

What The Movies Have To Offer During The Coming Week

There have been a lot of spectacular shows come out of Hollywood in the past years, but never in the history of the film industry have they thrown as many top flight stars into one picture as you will find in "Tales of Manhattan," which is slated for the day run at the Prince, starting Monday.

Marjorie Dietrich, Randolph Scott, John Wayne and Frank Craven with an excellent supporting cast move in for two day run commencing Monday to do the story of the boom days in "Pittsburgh."

Its an absorbing story with a predominance of rotating action that keeps the thing moving so swiftly that it is hard at times to keep within the bounds of the narrative. The romantic portions of the picture are tender and there are some comical scenes to relieve the more dramatic moments which all added together makes an adventurous entertainment.

Destination Tokyo, with William Cagney and Irene Hervey in the leads, will move in for the Wednesday Thursday and Friday run. What I can get out of it is true respect. It is the story of the Chinese guerrillas fighting as much to harass the Japs in China. It will be a honey for action.

The East Side Kids with Budle Barnes, Gilbert Roland, Mary Lee and Ruby Gilbert are on the

WHEN fine materials are combined with more than half a century of brewing skill, you're bound to get a superlatively good beer. And JAX is just that!—a grand, refreshing, golden and mellow drink for all occasions.

Whenever you order beer say "Make mine JAX" because no more satisfying beer can be bought regardless of price.

Ask for JAX JUMBO Full Quart Bottle! Jumbo is the friendly way to buy JAX because it makes no wasted bottle caps go further. And you prevent a beer shortage.

When you open a Jumbo, pour the beer carefully, replace the cap tightly and put it in your refrigerator to keep until you are ready for your next glass of JAX.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

American flyers with the RAF are raining demolition bombs on Nazi cities today. These instruments of destruction so important in razing Nazi war plants, interrupting rail road transportation and other war objectives, range now into several tons.

The 500-pound demolition Bomb is one of the lighter ones. Bombs are attached to facilitate handling and the fins are not attached until the Bomb reaches the airfield, because bending would injure accuracy. They cost up to $500. Your purchase of War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan will help provide Bombs for our airman. Let's "Top that Ten Percent."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Our men in the service in this war have pretty definite ideas about what they're fighting for and the way they want to get our country when they come back...don't you think so, Judge?"

"I certainly do, George. Just a week or so ago I was reading in a national magazine the results of a poll taken among our soldiers. Each man was given a questionnaire containing twenty-five 'assignments' for the folks at home. He was asked to check the first five in order of importance to him."

"Out of thousands of replies the first 'assignment' to the folks back home was 'Make sure I'll have a job in my chosen field of work when I get back. Number 5 was 'Make sure that Prohibition isn't put over on us again.'"

"When the men in the last war came home and found prohibition had been put over on them behind their backs they were sore as beet. You can see from what I just told you how they feel about it this time, too."

How Indian River Citrus Fruit Helps Build MORE TANKS

Jones felt too in new work. He was down with one of his frequent colds. After the doctor ordered more citrus fruit and fresh vegetables in his diet he was on the job regularly, week after week, turning out tanks.

And so with millions of the workers in the nation's shipyards and war plants. Every day lost due to illness means fewer guns, tanks, ships, planes and shells at a time when every minute of production counts.

Over the Florida East Coast Railway long trainloads of citrus fruits and fresh vegetables speed north to improve and safeguard the nation's health.

And were it not for the adequate transportation service provided by the Florida East Coast Railway and other railroads these valuable Florida products could not be profitably marketed.

This is but another way in which the railroads today are proving the very "Life-Line of the Nation."
